The Complete Peter, Shifu, and Fink

Chapter 1: Strange New Things

Date 2026-01-07. 6 days after the Stealth Birds left. Peter suggests they see what flying in space is like. So they turn on the automatic defense system on and head up for space. The feel of flying in space is a ton different since there is no gravity or air. So they need to use reverse to slow down. They are new to this sort of flight so they get used to the controls till Fink wants to go and explore the moon. Since they got the secret to infinite oxygen from Chester, Buttercup, and Po. They can survive outside of their aircraft infinitely. They walk around and see the moon-base Chester, Buttercup, and Po set up. They also see the cave Chester and the rest got their powers from. They explore it and find that it has a history of all the great things the Stealth Birds had done. Meeting Po, getting supercar, major Davis, the Zods, the attack on the strongest base in the world. Chester, Buttercup, and Po getting their powers, the greed of the communist countries, exploring deep space, and all the rest.

They find a building on the moon, it has the sign do not enter unless authorized personnel. The Stealth Squad is the highest ranks so they are authorized to go in. They find out that when they walk in, they press a pressure plate that activates potions that splash on them. They immediately race out of there and make for home. When they land Peter rushes to the test bay and to Shifu and Fink it looked like he just disappeared. Peter ran back in less than a second! Fink wanted a computer, he though that and a computer appeared in-front of him. Peter wanted to see if he has a super speed. He ran all the way to the east coast to and back in 5 second! Fink wanted to build some drones. He just thought, “build 10 Zochnology drones,” and 10 Zochnology drones appeared in-front of him! Peter was also incredibly flexible and acrobatic. He was able to jump 20 feet into the air and do flips and the splits. Shifu was able to walk on lava and survive a 100 foot drop. He seems to have invincibility.

These powers were gotten at the same place the Stealth Birds got theirs. Plus their linked to their fighter jet attributes just like the Stealth Bird’s powers. Peter has high speed and flexibility, and his plane has super speed and high turn rate. Shifu has invincibility just like his plane's infinite structural integrity. Fink can make anything by just thinking about it just like his plane's infinite supply of resources. Peter is honored to have these powers and to have gotten them the same way the Stealth Birds got theirs.

But their excitement doesn't last long. They get a radio call from the Army saying they need them to conduct a top secret mission. They need them to break into a high security vault and steal something. Peter decides that they should use their newfound powers instead of their vehicles. They drive to the army base and get informed of the mission. "You are to break into the vault by any means necessary. Attack anyone who gets into your way, get the artifact, and get out of there." Peter, Shifu, and Fink drive to the vault and start making their way in. Peter will use his speed to get the key to unlock the vault, Shifu will be the shield, and Fink will build a prison for all the guards. Peter races in, runs past guards and grabs the key. He gets out of there before anyone even blinks. Fink builds an automatic prison not to far away. Shifu just walk in and throws everyone onto the conveyor belt that takes them to the prison. He does that until every guard is in the prison. All the guards are shocked. They saw Shifu get hit by every bullet they shot and it didn't do anything. They were shocked by how quickly the prison was built. And they were especially shocked by how they got the key before Shifu came in. Peter unlocked the door and walked in. They grabbed the artifact and got out of there. This only took 5 minutes so when they got back the army commander was blown. He gave them the Medal of Honor and shared what that artifact was. It was an infinite fuel secret. Now the Stealth Squad will have unlimited fuel for their cars, jets, and lab. This marks the start to the Stealth Squads new life.

Chapter 2: Ultimate Revenge

Date 2026-01-30. The Stealth Squad just completed their first mission. They are excited and ready to go on their next one. But little do they realize that the third and final attack will be on them, not the Stealth Birds. Peter hears a whistling, then another one and another until… BOOM! Bombs just hit the top of their base! Since they have Zochnology shields they think their okay… but when they go outside they see that the shield broke! They immediately get into the air and look for the attacker… or is it attackers? They see an aircraft. Peter races to intercept it and can't identify it. Nevertheless he destroyed it while keeping the pilot safe. Then in space he see's one, then two, then multiple aircraft. Maybe more than a thousand! He tells Fink to scan what they are and he says, "They are Zod aircraft." The Zods are coming for revenge. A third and final attack from the Zods. Peter, Shifu, and Fink race to space to intercept them. "I thought Buttercup destroyed the Zod's last secret planet?!" Peter said, "I guess they had more than 2." Fink says, "well however many they have we have to defeat them again."

They all have a hard time landing hits on the Zods. They keep swerving and weaving through all the Stealth Squad's fire. "They must have upgraded their turn rate." Says Peter. Fink starts building some AAA drones to help them. Shifu manages to use his flip ability to make sharper turns. Peter is able to defeat 200 planes. Shifu destroys 300, and Fink destroys 250. The drones destroy 200, but there are still 50 planes left. They all retreat. Peter suggests that he gets an armament of supernukes and follow the Zods. The others agree and they go back to the radar station. Peter follows the Zods all the way out 50 light-years into space. He finally see's a planet that the Zods land on. But this isn't like any other Zod planet. It's an entire Zochnology planet, full of planes and AAA. He is immediately bombarded with AAA fire and swerves left and right. He tells Shifu and Fink to release the full payload of Zochnology nuke missiles at the planet. He will disable all the AAA. He gets really close to the planet and starts shooting at the AAA. Because he has stealth and super speed, none of the AAA can shoot or see him. One after another each AAA is destroyed. When the final one is destroyed, Peter flies away from the planet and waits for the missiles to arrive. When the missiles get there Peter releases his full payload as well… BOOOM!! The planet goes up in a fireball. This is the last we will hear of the Zods… forever.

Chapter 3: Only One Shall Last

Date 2026-02-01. The Stealth Squad get a mysterious distress call. It told them that he was trapped and that he needed their help. The location was in Russia. They got into their planes and took off for the distress location. They flew all the way to Russia and landed outside a large building. They get out and Peter gives everyone a gun, survival backpack, and a water canteen. They go into the building and its pitch black inside. Then suddenly a trapdoor opens and they all fall down… then everything is black, no movement, nothing. When Peter wakes up it looks like he's in a prison cell. Only that the walls are made of quartz. Shifu and Fink are also in a prison cell. A loudspeaker comes on and a person starts talking. "I am the person who sent out that distress call, and you have walked right into my trap! Each of you shall be tested to your abilities, but only one of you shall walk out of here alive!" The loudspeaker turns off and they are left alone. Peter looks for anything that can help him escape or that is unusual. Shifu also looks for a way to escape.

But Fink makes a fake robot version of him, he then makes a radar and finds out how big this place is. They are 1,000 feet underground and the building is more than 10 acres big. He can't use a drill but he can get deep enough to use one. He digs out a large hole, then puts a drill down in it and turns it on. He is not able to find Peter or Shifu. He finds his way out and looks at what his robot is doing. Peter finds a trap door and climbs down. Shifu finds a small opening in the ceiling and goes through it. Peter enters a new room where he has to open a lock combination. Shifu enters a room where he has to climb and jump on vines to get to the other side. Peter solves the lock combination and Shifu scales the ditch.

Fink is building a robot army. He finds out every single room and exactly where the captor is. He programs the robots and sets them on their way. Now he is still trying to track where Peter and Shifu are. It is much harder to find them than the entire building. Peter and Shifu are now in the same room. They are to quietly jump across a lava pit without waking up a lava monster. They almost wake it up by creaky poles. They pass through the room and go into the next one. The captor cannot focus on them since he is being attacked by Fink's army of robots. The robots cannot be defeated by any security measure. But they can't get through the titanium walls that surround the captor's control center. Fink is trying to build a laser to burn through the metal. Meanwhile, Peter is now being attacked by 20 enemies and needs to defeat them to move on. Shifu is now being tested his true Kung Fu skills. He is up against a robot at the highest level of Kung Fu. Peter is shot in the arm but passes this level. Shifu is bruised all over but still passes this one too. Each level is more and more difficult until they can't pass one. Fink needs to hurry. He built the laser and is breaking into the control center. The captor knows that he is out of options, so he enables his escape system. Fink sends robots after him and rushes to get through the wall. Peter now needs to pick a correct hole to jump into. Shifu is met by a robot girl that looks hyper realistic but he needs to press a button to disable it. The problem is that the robot pleads with you not to press it and it sounds so real. Peter jumps into the right hole and lands in salt water. That does not help his wound. Shifu presses the button and now feels guilty. Fink breaks into the room and tries to hack into the system. He hacks into it and disables all future levels. He then brings Peter and Shifu to the surface. When Fink goes out Peter and Shifu thank him. Peter's wound takes a week to heal and Shifu takes a month to recover from his guilt.

Chapter 4: The Guilt

Date, 2026-02-20. The Stealth Squad got a mission from the USAF. They need them to intercept an aircraft that is attacking one of their cargo planes. Peter, Shifu, and Fink race to intercept it. They get word that one of it's 6 engines was shot. They reach the aircraft and see it's leaking fuel. There are four Su-27s attacking the plane. These planes don't immediately break off but take evasive maneuvers. Peter is wondering why they aren't scared. Peter says fire warning shots, "if you don't break off we will open fire!" No response. Peter says try to get behind them and demagnetize their armaments. But the Su-27 pilots weave and swerve all around. They shoot another engine off the cargo plane. Peter now pulls 30 Gs to get behind two of the enemy fighters and demagnetizes their armament. But these pilots don’t give up. They shoot and damage one of Shifu and Fink’s engines and breaks off. “How can they damage our planes? We have Zochnology!” The last planes are trying to get past Shifu and Fink to shoot the last two engines out of the cargo plane. Peter is forced to shoot them down. Making the last Su-27s go up in flames.

Peter broke off and headed for home, the others followed. When they got back Peter was outraged. “WHY DIDN’T THEY BREAK OFF? THEY COULD HAVE BROKEN OFF AND IT COULD HAVE ENDED! I SHOT TWO PEOPLE!! WHY?!” Shifu and Fink tried to comfort him saying, “you did what you had to. There wasn’t anything else that can or could have been done.” “You did the right choice lad.” “NO! I didn’t’ make the right choice. I failed, I failed you guys, I failed the USAF, I failed everyone… even Chester.” Shifu and Fink are speechless. They didn’t think he would go this far. “I failed Chester, he thought I was the right replacement and I thought so too. I guess I thought wrong. I am not worthy to continue this role.” Shifu said, “no, you didn’t fail him. You were always worthy of this role. If he was in your place he would have done the same thing.” Peter didn’t listen, he left. Shifu tried to go after him, but Fink kept him back. “Let him have some time. He’ll get over it.”

The next day Peter wasn’t back and his aircraft was gone. Shifu turned on the tracker and saw that Peter was out in space! He was actually on K2-18B. Shifu lost it, he jumped in his harrier, flew out into space, and intended on dragging Peter back by his feet. Fink couldn’t stop him. Shifu got to K2-18B and realized that some weird alien found him and took him captive. Shifu notified Fink and told him he was going in. He was immediately bombarded with AAA fire. But because he had Zochnology they didn’t leave a mark. Then a large gun appears out of the ground and fires a large plasma beam at him. That damaged his shields a bit. Shifu needs to hurry. He turns on the radar and searches for Peter. He finds him deep in the planet. He needs Fink. Fink can get to him in 2 hours but can Shifu last that long? Shifu leaves weapon range and waits. Fink arrives and makes a drill. It bores into the hole and reveals Peter. Shifu goes into it, gets Peter, and makes for home.

Peter apologizes for running off and admits he was wrong. Shifu and Fink forgive him. Shifu and Fink decide to make zochnology engine drives for their planes. This allows them to fly at the speed of light. Getting around space will be much easier.

Chapter 5: Deep Sea Trouble

Date, 2026-02-25. The NOAA (National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration) needs the Stealth Squad’s help. They have lost 10 men and 2 deep sea submarines in the Mariana Trench. They have enough oxygen for 4 hours but their submarine is getting crushed. Peter, Shifu, and Fink have to act fast. They upgrade all of their planes to have almost infinite structural integrity and add higher thrust. They take off and quickly race to the Mariana Trench. When they get there they are informed on the current situation. They climb to 1,000 feet and dive. They hit the water and start descending into no man’s land.

They have to use sonar to find the lost submarine. They find that it is 7 miles into the Mariana Trench! Peter speeds ahead and see’s what kind of a state the crew and the submarine is in. He finds out that the submarine is crushed half way. It isn’t leaking but it’s going deeper and deeper. Shifu and Fink arrive. Peter suggests that he and Shifu try to lift it up while Fink builds a machine to push it back up. Fink has a hard time building it since there is water everywhere. He needs to go to the surface and build it. But there isn’t a lot of time. He builds the machine and sends it down. It pulls the submarine up and safely returns it to the NOAA.

Peter has an idea. While they’re down here, why don’t they explore a bit of the deep dark? They start descending and take pictures and videos. They take samples and different undersea animals. They then reach the bottom of the trench. It’s just a pitch black sea. No light, nothing. They start heading up but then suddenly Peter’s plane starts decreasing in speed. Engine warnings start lighting up and he falls back to the bottom. It seems that trying to push the submarine put a ton of stress on his plane. Then going to the very bottom put all that water above the engines and they malfunctioned. Peter is now stuck at the bottom of the ocean. Without the Zochnology on he can only last 2 hours at the bottom. Not enough time for Fink to race to the surface and build a retrieval system. Because he is underwater he can’t do an engine restart procedure. First Peter wants to transfer all the data to Shifu’s plane. Peter can’t go outside because he’ll turn into a human pancake. Shifu tells Peter to press the full cockpit eject button. Then he presses the foam surround button. Now Shifu can pull Peter back up. But his plane is left at the bottom of the sea. When they get to the suface, Peter hops into Shifu’s plane and they give all the data to the NOAA. The US Govenment is happy with this data. They give the Stealth Squad 1 trillion dollars. But Peter is now trying to find a new plane.

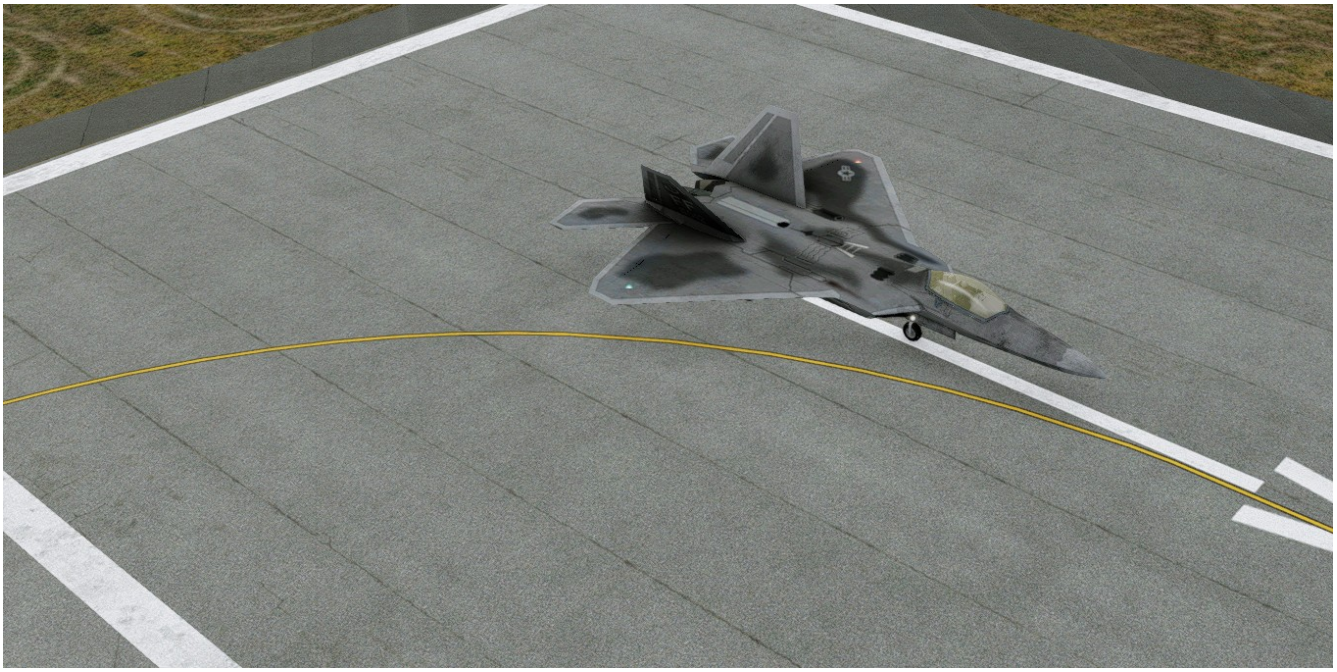

Chapter 6: A Flying Pig

Date, 2026-02-30. Peter is in search of a new plane. He goes to the USAF and flies many different jets. He flies an F-106 Delta Dart, an F-22 Raptor, an F-35 Lightning, an F-14 Tomcat, and an F-15. Basically every jet that is in service still.

The F-106 Delta Dart had too old of a frame. He also didn’t like the one engine fact. It was also too big. Since the frame of the aircraft looked like a rocket; it’s ailerons were a bit weird. He rejected it within the hour.

The F-22 Raptor was almost perfect. But this one thing made it a no. He liked the two engines. And also liked how the weapons were placed. The ailerons, rudders, and tail wings all worked fine. But the engine, computer, and control panels were all incompatible with Zochnology upgrades. That he couldn’t have.

The F-35 Was half right half wrong. All the good things were that it had good control panel and flight controls. But again, like the F-106. It had one engine. Peter wanted two. Also it was more like a rocket than an actual fighter jet.

The F-14 Tomcat was awesome. It had two engines. Massive afterburners, a big armament, and high radar. But the controls were not easy to use. The ailerons and rudders were a bit “bonkers” as he put it.

The F-15 was okay. It had okay ailerons, okay rudders, okay control panel, okay radar. Literally everything was just “okay”. And Peter needs something that can make his jaw snap open. And the F-15 was not that aircraft. Peter now has no more selections… in service selections that is. There are still tons of more aircraft that are retired but could be used. He tries the F-4 Phantom II, the B-2 Spirit, the F-117 Nighthawk, and the SR-71 Blackbird.

The F-4 Phantom II was pretty good. It had two engines, okay ailerons, good rudders, fairly good control panels. But it's frame was built like a rocket and so was the engines. He couldn't have that. This was a retired aircraft and got a 5 out of 10.

The SR-71 Blackbird got a 7 out of 10. Even though this plane wasn't made for aerial combat. He still has to test it. This plane has a top speed of mach 3.3. Doesn't have a great turn rate. Has maxed out radar and stealth. But doesn't have weapons.

The F-117 Nighthawk on the other hand was made for fighting. More specifically, bombing missions. This plane was almost impossible to see on radar. It was almost perfect. Except for the fact that it only had room for two weapons.

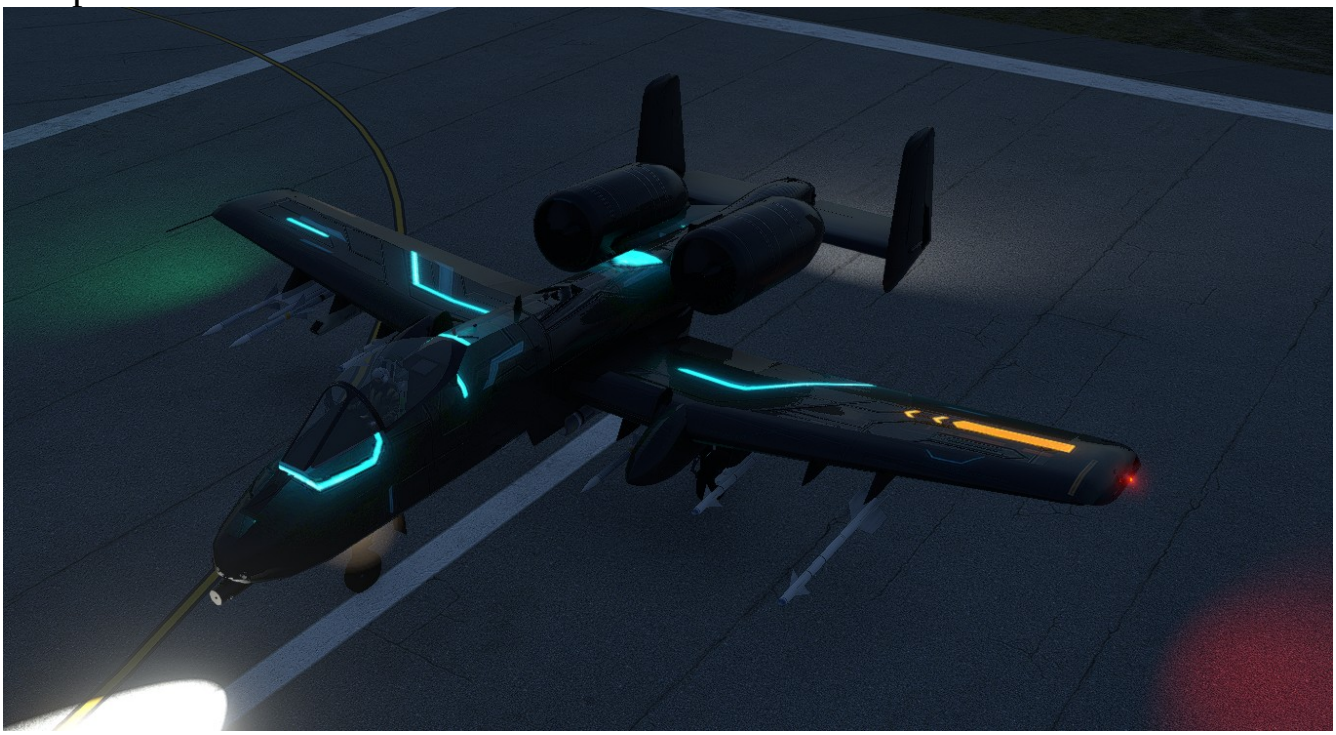

The B-2 Spirit was made for bombing. But it had a massive payload. It could hold 20 bombs! Or a whole lot of tax dollars. He flew it and there were only one or two things bad. One, it was massive. The wingspan was 172 feet! The turn rate was terrible and it was high maintenance. Peter thinks he has gone through the entire selection. A few days later he gets a call from the USAF saying they have another aircraft for him. He goes over there and it's the A-10 Warthog! This aircraft is a beast. It has super high armor and an incredible armament. Peter is genuinely excited to try this one. He gets in and test flies it. It’s turn rate is high, the weapons are insane, and the gun was something else. He absolutely loved this plane. He bought an air worthy one and upgraded it. He made the engine more powerful, upgraded the radar and weapons.

This was his new aircraft. The A-10 Warthog. A flying pig!

Chapter 7: Off Duty

Date, 2026-03-05. Every super hero has a regular life. Except for the Stealth Squad, theirs is easier. Nobody is wanting to get their autograph, no one is trying to kill them (at least not all the time), and nobody is giving free stuff to them.

Monday, the Stealth Squad always go on a shopping spree to refill on supplies. Except this isn’t a normal shopping spree. The Stealth Squad go and get plane parts, guns, missiles, rockets, bombs. They also get tools, things to fix their base, radar equipment. Then they also get regular stuff like cheese, meats, milk, orange juice, fruit, greens, electrolytes, and paper towels. All this costs a ton of money. Probably around 200 dollars for the regular stuff and probably 5,000 to 10,000 dollars for the plane, tools, and radar equipment.

Tuesday, this is their help the community day. They have a CFB (Cute Facebook) where they tell everyone that they can help them if they need it. That is from 6 AM to 12 PM. Then they take a 1 hour lunch break and continue till 5 PM. Then they get dinner. At 6:30 PM there is this thing they go to called the AAP. The Animal Air Patrol. They help with it and sometimes do classes.

Wednesday, in the morning they do some foreign community help, and then in the afternoon they do school help. One time they went to HAHL. Hilger Animal Higher Learning. They did a science class on aviation mechanics. There was also a boy there who really liked it but they couldn't remember his name. Then in the evening they went to out with friends to play games.

Thursday, AAHD, Army Airforce Help Day. They devote this day to helping the army or Airforce with anything that needs fixed. They can fix anything in like 2 seconds. Then in the late afternoon to evening they help the Navy. This involves fixing aircraft carriers, destroyers, patrol ships, submarines, and battleships. This is very fun for them.

Friday, samaritan's furse and the Stealth Squad help give money to people in need. The Stealth Squad is always happy to give food, shelter, jobs, or money to people in need. Not only do the Stealth Squad help in wars but also in the community.

Saturday, this is where they start making sure and test that everything they have is fully functional for Monday. Since they don't do anything on Sundays they need to do this on Saturdays. They test the radar, planes, weapons, and drones.

Chapter 8: The Night Task

Date, 2026-03-15. Peter is wide awake at 3 AM. Shifu and Fink are fast asleep. But something is keeping Peter at this time of morning. He gets a radio call from the USAF saying that they need him for a night mission. Luckily his plane has quiet engines and powerful lights and searchlights. The USAF needs him to do a multirole mission. He needs to fly in and destroy and enemy search lights or AAA. Then he needs to rescue any allies in the prisons. Last he needs to bomb the whole area and get out of there.

The cool thing about his plane is that it has colored lights all around his aircraft. Which also makes it a target. He flies in there and bombs all search lights and AAA. He then goes and breaks out any prisoners there. But before he can destroy the base enemy fighters appear. He makes a hard turn and makes evasive maneuvers.

There are 4 enemy fighters. Su-27s. They fire multiple missiles and disable one of his engines. He manages to shoot 2 of them but their still attacking him. One of them gets behind him and shoots his right wing a bit. He shoots one of the last ones and gets behind the other one. This one manages to get away. He bombs the base and gets out of there.

Now the army has a mission for them. They need him to excort 3 nuclear bombs! He is now flying above the excort waiting for enemy aircraft. He flies ahead and finds 6 enemy aircraft waiting. He shoots all of them down and flies back. He finds multiple ground enemy vehichles waiting too. He shoots them down too. But then a long range missile shoots the nuke Peter is protecting and… BOOM! Everything in a 50 mile radious is destroyed. Peter has high damage but is still flying. His plane is scarred, engines suffured severe damage, and all his ailerons and rudders have failed. Peter has survived a nuke, but will he make it back home? He is very vunerable.

He could make it home but if enemy fighters intercept him… he goes down. He starts making his 2 hour journey home. He has to pass very close to nearby enemy bases. He stays low and passes by 20 enemy bases. One gets a radar signal on him, but his stealth makes him look like a fly. At the end of his flight he gets found and enemy aircraft are dispatched. He then races to cross the border. 2 enemy fighters are dispatched to intercept him. So, you think that he is gonna be shot down eh? WRONG! What the fighters don’t know about his plane is that it can still use all of its ailerons even if its shot multiple times. So he can see on the radar that 2 enemy fighters are coming from behind. But they aren’t tracking him yet. They pull up right next to him and ask him where he’s going? He tells them he is going to Sanfransokyo. They tell him they will escort him there… just for safety. Peter respects this and the fighters escort him to the USA Alaskian border.

When he gets back Shifu and Fink are intruiged to hear about his adventure.

Chapter 9: Old Friends Need Help

Date 2026-03-25. Chester, Buttercup, and Po are living a luxury life. Nothing goes wrong, they get to play games. But then they get a reading on the radar that 5 enemy aircraft are coming towards them. These enemy aircraft blow their roof off and capture The retired Stealth Birds. Buttercup manages to get out a distress signal to the Stealth Squad.

Peter finds the distress signal and immediately gets the others ready. Buttercup see’s that they are in space. Peter hears some alien language. He recognizes it, it’s Zod language. Peter is immediately asking questions like, how are they still alive, will Peter respond? The Stealth Squad is now in the skies tracking down the Stealth Birds. They see the Stealth Birds are inside an enemy aircraft taken hostage. They also notice that it’s the Zods. Since they don’t want to hurt the Stealth Birds, they resort to Fink’s building power. Peter and Shifu try drawing the Zod’s attention away but they just attack from where they are. They obviously want the Stealth Birds for some reason. Fink builds a capture ship but the Zod aircraft needs to be de-armed before he can deploy it. Though all the Zod aircraft's armaments are in bays. Shifu and Peter end up shooting all the aircraft. But the cargo plane is still flying and shooting at the Stealth Squad. This is no ordinary cargo plane. This is the AC-130, a giant attack gunplane. This thing can keep firing at them for ages. Peter doesn't know how to disable it. He decides to make a new weapon for that purpose. He flies back to base and starts working on it while Shifu and Fink try getting the Stealth Birds out.

Peter is thinking of a weapon that can disable guns. He makes a disrupter that pushes all the gun bullets away. Inside and outside. He comes back and it works. Fink enables his capture ship and rescues the Stealth Birds. This plane however was equipped with a nuke in it in case of capture. Peter barely realizes this and tells each of the Stealth Birds to get in their aircraft… BOOM! Each of the Stealth Squad's aircraft suffered severe damage. All of them are safe but the planes now need to make a journey now made longer because of the nuke. Instead of 30 minutes, it now takes 2 hours! The bad thing is that they are in enemy territory. They have to spend 1 hour flying in enemy territory. Now that they destroyed an important aircraft they are probably on a wanted list. They fly low and kick up their stealth. A few enemy aircraft were flying over the area, but they couldn't see any of them. But every once and a while their invisibility would flicker. And enemy aircraft would investigate. None of them could see him though and they got home safely.

Chapter 10: A Final Victory, A Final Return

Date, 2027-03-30. One year has passed since the Stealth Squad helped the Stealth Birds. The Stealth Squad is enjoying this life and the Stealth Birds are enjoying luxury retirement. But in this world nobody ages and you can stop retiring if you wanted to. This is what the Stealth Birds had in mind. After a while they would continue again at the Stealth Birds. This was the day they would start back again. They had to come in some sort of fancy way. But before they could, one final victory would they make as the Stealth Birds. They wake up and find out that they got a radio call in the night. “We still want revenge! This is Vladimir Shutin!” Buttercup calls for the others and they see that the Russians want revenge from something they did over 1 year ago! Peter and Po upgrade their planes and prepare for something nasty.

On the radar Buttercup see’s multiple incoming planes and attack planes. Chester and Po get in the air and Buttercup fires missiles at the planes. Chester and Po are weaving and swerving around gun fire and planes. Soon enough all that’s left is the attack planes. They drop nukes onto the Stealth Bird’s house. But their house has a shield around it so the nuke does nothing. These attack planes however have powerful guns that have explosives in them. None of the explosives hurt the Stealth Bird’s planes… but they do make it annoying to line up a shot. The enemy can just keep firing explosives to push the Stealth Birds away. Buttercup has run out of ground missiles to fire. Chester and Po keep getting knocked away from the aircraft. The planes finally start going low on ammunition and head for home. Buttercup decides to send it a little present. She put a time bomb on it so when it landed… BOOM!

Now that the attack was repelled. The Stealth Birds can make a fancy entrance back to Sanfransokyo where they will meet up with the Stealth Squad. They start preparing to live back in Sanfransokyo. They get all their stuff in a large drone plane and carry some things with them. They then start making their way in. They sort of do a show with their aircraft. They each have smoke on their planes and do a little high detailed show for Sanfransokyo.

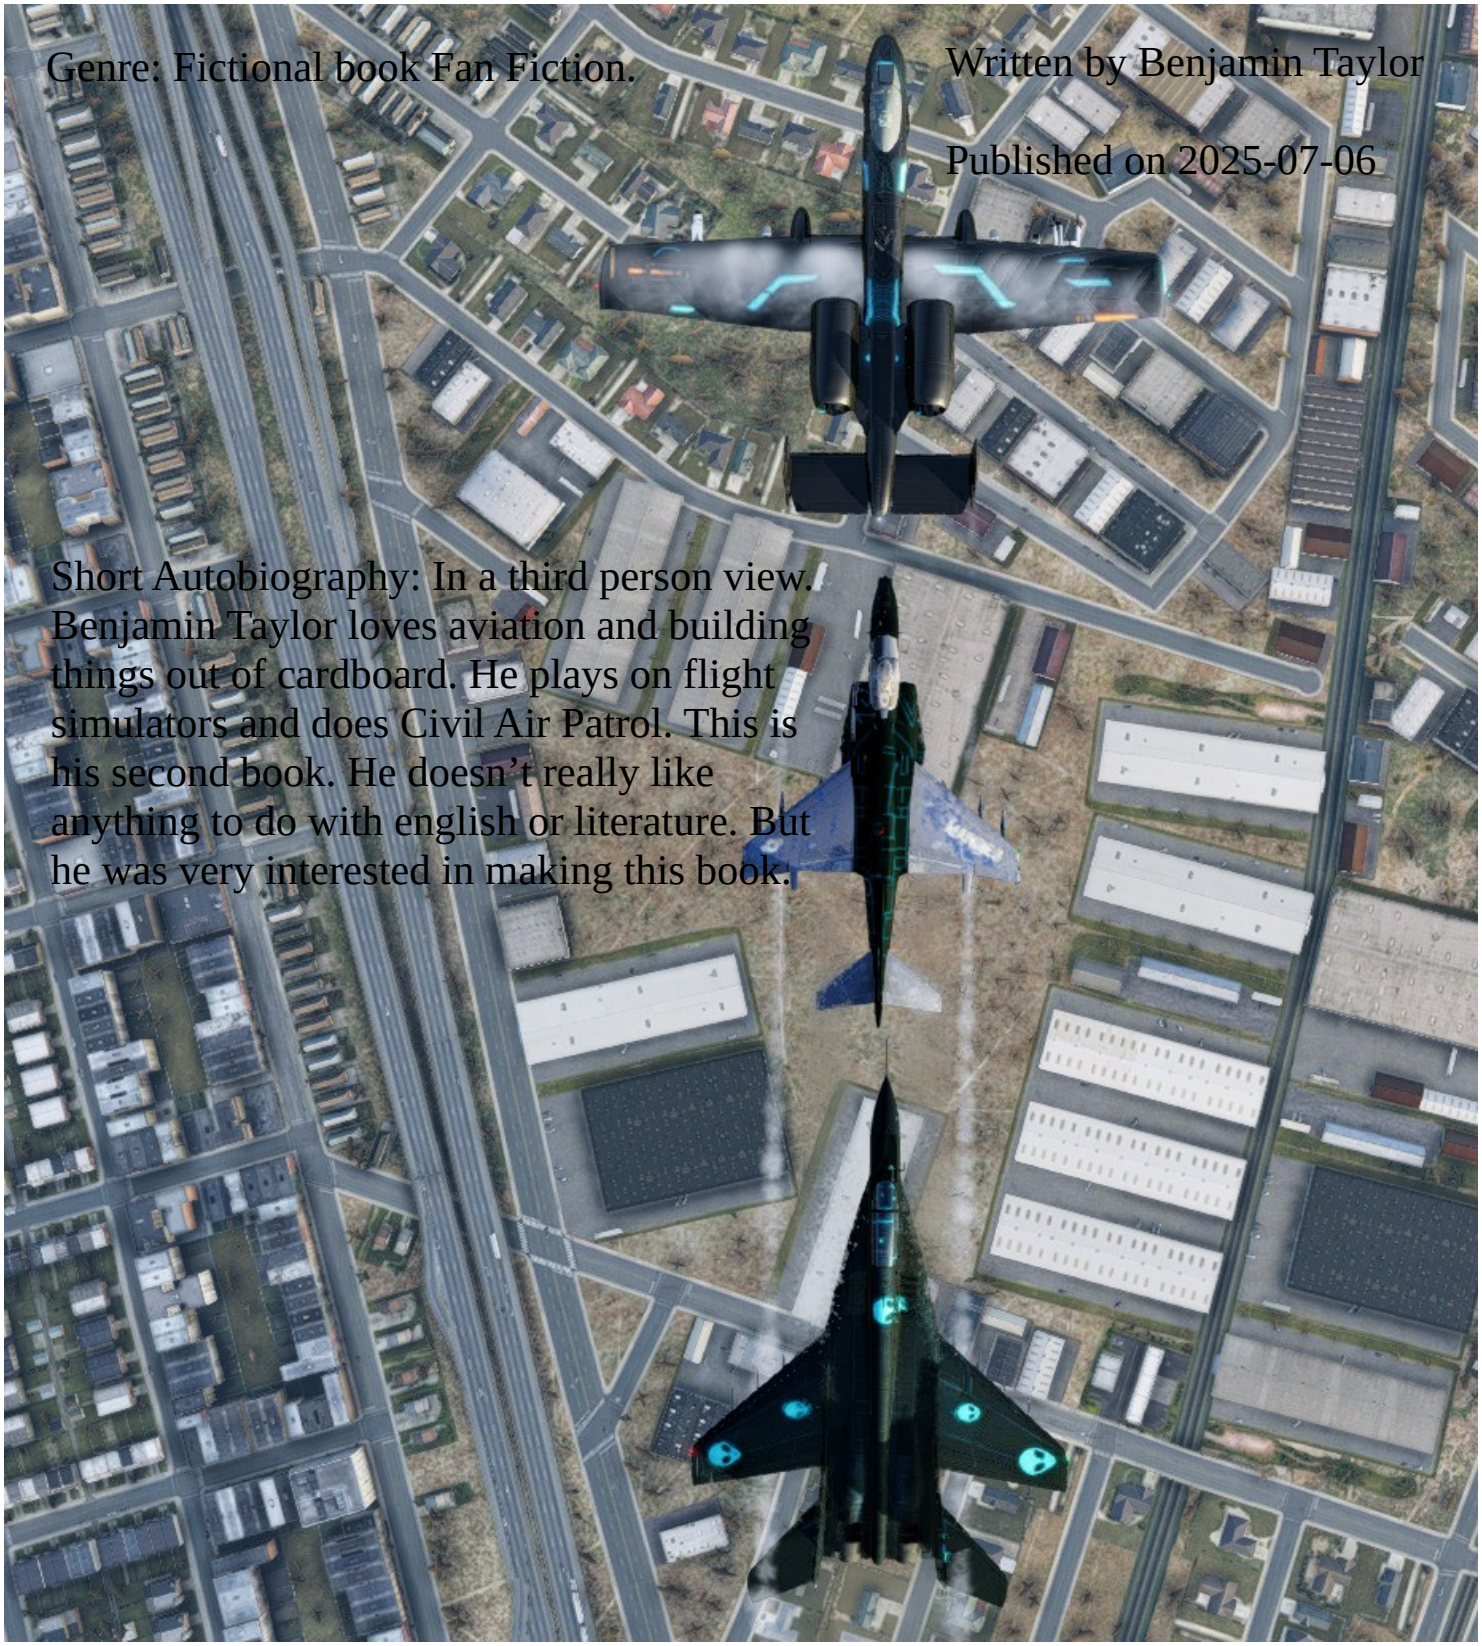

The Stealth Birds meet up with the Stealth Squad and they spend some quality time together until they team up. Now it’s Chester, Peter, Buttercup, Shifu, Po, and Fink… The Stealth Alpha Force!

He doesn’t really like anything to do with english or literature. But he was very interested in making this book.
